

Principles of Effective Learning and Teaching

Learning

is not necessarily an outcome of teaching is influenced by existing ideas usually proceeds from concrete to abstract requires practice requires feedback that promotes reflection is influenced by expectations about performance

Effective Teaching is consistent with the nature of inquiry reflects scientific values aims to counteract learning anxieties extends beyond the school takes time

(Science for All Americans, Chapter 13)