

Points to Be Made

- Changes in the curriculum and instruction should be justified by specific learning goals.
- Evaluators of curriculum materials need a thorough understanding of science literacy and learning goals.
- Study and use of SFAA and Benchmarks can improve the quality of decisions about which activities should be included in a curriculum.
- Study and use of SFAA and Benchmarks can make the work of science educators more intellectually stimulating and more rewarding.